Starting your own club or group

Want to start a Chartered Club or Special Interest Group to enjoy your interests about them with other residents?

Here's how to do it:

1. Schedule a meeting with the Chartered Club Advisory Committee (CCAC) to explain your idea.
2. If the CCAC approves your idea and it would not conflict with any other established club or group, then they will give you an application and explain the requirements to establish either a new Chartered Club or Special Interest Group.
3. The CCAC is available to help with any of the paperwork.
4. Your new club or group can begin to schedule meetings with the Lifestyle Director, appoint interim officers, announce your activities in an eBlast or in The Breeze and maintain attendance records for each meeting.
5. There is a six month trial period. During that time, you will need to submit the completed paperwork and attendance to the CCAC. You need a minimum of 10 residents as members to start and maintain your status.
6. The CCAC will review all paperwork and contact club officers or the group coordinator with any questions and approve or deny permanent status.

It may sound complicated or bureaucratic but it really isn't. Remember it is residents just like you who start clubs and interest groups and keep them going. The CCAC is an advisory group to the HOA Board of Directors and was formed to help Chartered Clubs and Special Interest Groups get started and advise with any necessary paperwork or any other issues.

For more information, contact a member of the CCAC or check the CCAC Operating Manual on the DWO Portal.

All are invited to join us for Thursday afternoon fun, playing a very easy-to-learn but challenging card game. The object is to correctly bid how many tricks you think you can take in a round. Bid correctly and you earn points, but beware: taking too few or too many tricks and you lose points. We play at tables of 3-6 players, and there is always room for YOU.
